Our Business Creed

We believe in the goods we are handling out in the firm we are building up and in our ability to get results.
We believe that honest goods can be passed out to honest people by honest methods. We believe in working not weeping, not knocking, and in the pleasure of our work, we believe that a man can reasonably expect to get what he goes after, that one does not now is worth two planned for the future.
We believe there is something doing somewhere for every man ready to do it. We believe we're ready right now.

COLEMAN PEBBLES

Happenings of Interest in and Around this Bustling Town.
You are Talked About

About two inches of snow fell on Tuesday night.

D. J. Lewis is getting along nicely.
He is out of the hospital.

Do not forget the "smoke" in the Eagle's hall on Saturday evening.

Emile Gengembre left on Thursday night for France for three months on business.

W. H. Swann has returned to town and has his old job store keeping at the mine.

D. J. Hill is having his house improved by a coat of paint, which will improve the appearance a lot.

Wm. Haley of the Coleman Livery, had his right foot badly crushed on Monday by a log rolling on it.

A vote for Herron will be a vote for a good, straightforward man. Be sure and vote for Herron on the 26th.

Dave Whitson, a C. P. R. brakeman, had a finger of his right hand badly smashed while coupling cars on Sunday.

The wind blew so strong on Monday night that it tore down the sign of the Liberal committee rooms. A bad omen, that.

Wm. Chalmers and wife and A. M.
Morrison have moved into their comfortable quarters over the "Pastime" pool room.

WANTED—House work of any kind. Washing, mending, cleaning, scrubbing. Mrs. E. Gengembre, house 10, near livery stable.

H. Gate and A. M. Morrison are enumerators in town. Be sure and get your names on the list so that you can have a vote on the 26th.

Operations commenced this week on a new lime kiln at the Summit Lime Works. Mr. Hazel has now about a dozen men at work, and is rushed with orders.

Coleman Lodge No. 33, I.O.O.F., are talking of instituting a branch of the Rebekahs here. There should be good material amongst the wives of the members.

W. F. Brown, Liberal organizer
from Edmonton, and the Hon. W. H.
Cushing, minister of public works for the province, were guests at the Grand Union while in town.

There is a movement now to make a constituency from Lundbrook west to the boundary of the province.
This will likely be done at the next sitting of the legislature.

At the Liberal meeting on Tuesday evening the hall was very cold. Some men were so cold, in fact, that they had to wear their overcoats. A fire would be welcome these damp evenings.

Miss Nettie McIntyre, who has been spending the past two months at St.
Mary's for the benefit of her health,
returned home on Sunday, much improved her many friends will be pleased to hear.

M. B. Stitt and Scottie Hume went up to Crow's Nest hunting for a couple of days. They returned and left the game in the woods. Barney caught a cold, which is a wonder, as it is said he is too slow to catch cold.

James McNeill, proprietor of the Coleman, has rented the house formerly occupied by the office staff of the coal company, and will move into it.
Don Hogarth, wire clerk at the Coleman, will also be an occupant.

J. Holmes late of Fernie, will open up a shoe store and harness shop in the store lately occupied by Miss McIntyre as millinery parlors. Mr.
Holmes also will be an acceptable acquisition to the band.

A common drunk was taken to the coop last week. He was before the bench and given one month at Macleod. For using insulting language to the magistrate he was given three months more. He'll be sober when he comes out.

The "Holy City" was played in the opera house last night to a full house.
The play throughout was a grand success. Harold Nelson, the old favorite, was at his best, and with his strong company rendered the play to the satisfaction of all.

FOR SALE—A cottage beautifully situated, comfortable and located in the residential portion of Coleman. A good cash proposition or easy terms will be given. S. Charles Brooks, "The Cotton Woods," Brook street, Merritt, Victoria, B.C.

Constable Green went to Moose Jaw
last week and Monday.

With Mrs. T. Merryman, the little girl and Ben. Reese. They were before magistrate Savidge on Monday, and the case was remanded. It came up again on Thursday, E. Disney, J. P., trying it. The case was settled in court by Mrs. Merryman paying half the costs, and T. Merryman paying half. The whole cost amounted to $160.

The members of the office staff of the coal company removed from the "mess" to the house recently vacated by G. L. Fraser. The names of the house-mates who are domiciled in the mansions on the hill are: W. S. Bosworth, W. A. Davidson, W. G.
Norris, H. W. Phillips, R. S. Robertson, M. Rymas, E. F. Ross, Stewart, Chan Yen, assistant steward. The boys say that they are as snug as a bug in a rug.

HERRON IN PASS

Conservative Candidate Received in Every Town in the Crow's Nest Pass With Great Cheers. Meetings at Every Place a Grand Success. All For Herron

IS POSITIVELY ASSURED OF A LARGE MAJORITY

John Herron, M. P., spent the last four days speaking in the Pass. At Lille on Saturday afternoon Mr. Herron received a fine reception and is assured of a large majority from that camp. Mr. Herron spoke at Frank Saturday evening and was greeted by an audience of 100 of the good citizens of that place. Frank is all for Herron and the Liberals of that place have lost all hope of even getting a 1 to 4 vote for their candidate. Mr. Herron returned to Pincher Creek and spoke to the largest audience ever assembled in his own town, thus showing the esteem in which Mr. Herron is held by those who know him best. Tuesday, Mr. Herron returned to the Pass and spoke at Hillcrest that afternoon to about 60 of the people of that thriving place. It was the same old story of everybody for Honest John. The chair was filled by Mr. Hill who in a neat but non-partisan speech, opened and closed the meeting. Mr. Herron then proceeded to Blairmore and, although the weather was anything but desirable, spoke to a good sized crowd in the opera house. It was Herron and Herron only in the famous village of land steals and grave yard scandals.
On Wednesday Bellevue was visited and Mr. Herron had the pleasure of addressing a meeting which proved at the beginning to be strongly Socialist, but at the close one of the leading men of that party rose to his feet and said,
"Boys, Mr. Herron has stolen some of serious work of the bread and butter press of this country, scoring them for the reason that they are false statement they made about him.

Mr. Herron challenged the subsidized Liberal press to make good their statements. He said that he had put up $700 at Macleod and that any body who could prove any one of the seven slanders could have the money, that the cash was still up but that no takers could be found.
The pre-emption land bill was next dealt with and Mr. Herron produced the records to show that he fought hard to have the privileges of this bill extended to the foothills but was voted down by the Liberals. Mr.
Herron also showed by the records that he was the leading man in the humber combine investigation and did prove that such illegal combine existed, that the records of that investigation were sent to Edmonton and used in the proceedings which resulted in the conviction of the members of this illegal combine. Mr.
Herron also produced the records to prove his stand on the Asiatic debate and which we reported some time ago under the title of "A White Man's Country." Mr. Herron also dealt with his motion to the effect that the residence of the family of a homesteader should be sufficient and not the head of the family should not be deprived of his rights because circumstances forced him to leave his farm in pursuit of work to earn food for his wife and children. Mr. Herron dealt with the timber lands scandal and showed how they had been doled out to political leaders and how the country lost hundreds of millions of dollars while members of the Liberal party became multi-millionaires. A another question of most vital interest to the people of Alberta was handled in a masterly way by Mr. Herron, that of the natural resources of this province. In lieu of these we receive from the Liberal government at Ottawa $375,000, while if these coal lands, timber lands, agricultural lands, water power, fisheries, etc.
were owned by the province we would have millions upon millions of dollars with which to build railroads, roads, bridge, telephone, telegraph and other public utilities, and even then we would never exhaust the monies derived from this source. But to-day what do we find? That the people of this province are taxed and will be taxed and burdened with taxes to raise money to build roads and bridges while every cent collected from the sale of our lands goes to Ottawa to be squandered by the ministers and members of the Liberal government. Will the people of Alberta vote to keep in power men such as these? No. All the voters of this country, no matter whether they are Liberals or Conservatives, will cast their vote at the coming elections for fair and honest government. The good Conservatives of 1896 put the Conservative government out of power and the good Liberals of to-day will put the Liberal government out of power, and to some extent, wipe out the disgrace brought upon this fair Dominion. We have not time or space to deal further with Mr. Her-ron's speech this week but we hope next week to go into other facts which are of great interest to the people of Canada. In closing, Mr.
Herron asked the voters to judge for themselves and that if they found that he had done his duty, had been honest and faithful to the trust placed in him four years ago, to vote for him again and that he would be the best of his ability do everything he could to advance the welfare and interests of the people whom he represents.

John Herron, Conservative Candidate

Our planks, he comes closer to our way of thinking than any man who has yet visited this part of the country and if you do not vote for the Socialist candidate then plump for Honest John Herron." This remark was greeted with three cheers for John Herron. From Bellevue the popular candidate proceeded to Frank, where a special train was arranged for to carry the crowds who followed Mr. Herron to Coleman.
In the grand and commodious opera house, owned by the Miners' Union.
Mr. Herron addressed one of the large-est gatherings the prosperous town of Coleman has seen for many a day.
The train from Frank and intermediate points was crowded and piled up.
The Coleman band was at the station to welcome Honest John Herron and friends from the surrounding towns.
Everything and everybody was worked up to the highest level and from all came cheer after cheer for the Conservative candidate. We will now deal briefly with Mr. Herron's speeches.
In opening Mr. Herron gave a cordial invitation to any or all opposition speakers who might happen to be in the audience to come forward and occupy a seat on the platform. He said he would give them all the time desired to reply to him. In fact, Mr.
Herron offered everything except to refrain from speaking himself. But no one, except a representative of the Socialist party at the Coleman meeting, availed themselves of the privilege. Mr. McLaughlin, the Socialist speaker, dealt with public questions of the day from a Socialistic standpoint and laid his case very nicely before the large crowd assembled.
Mr. Herron then took up the infor-

CATARRH OF HEAD

Which Persons Relieved in a Short Time.

MISS SUSIE M. KINGSWORTH.
406 Quebec Street, London, Ontario, writes:
"I began using Peruna last January when I had such a bad cold, and I could not get anything to help me."
"My nose and head were all stopped up, so that I could hardly get my breath. I thought at times that I would smother, especially at night."
"I have no trouble with that now. The noise in my head has all disappeared."
"I know Peruna will do just what you say it does. I cannot praise Peruna too highly, as it has done so much for me. I hope my letter will reach other sufferers."
Mrs. S.J. Kountz, 1015 Sevel street, Nashville, Tenn., writes:
"I have had a very bad cough nearly all my life, and I am forty-five years old. I have taken almost every kind of cough medicine that has ever been made, but none did me much good. I would have spells of coughing that I thought I would cough myself to death. I took Peruna, and last winter and this winter I have had no cough, and I know that Peruna cured me."

For the Thirteenth.
A farmer, the father of twelve children, all of whom had been rocked in the same cradle by the same big toe, was rocking the newest arrival one evening, when his wife remarked, John, that cradle is nearly worn out. It's so rickety I'm afraid it will fall to pieces." "It is about used up," replied her husband. Then, handing her the cradle, he added, "The next time you go to town get a new one, a good one—that will last."

HOW'S THIS?

Rich Aunt.—So sorry I haven't been able to see more of you and Adolphus this afternoon. I'm afraid you've had rather a dull time.

You Can Test the Kidneys

Then let Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills prove their power to cure. Let urine stand for twenty-four hours and if at the end of that time there are deposits of a brick dust variety, or if the water becomes smoky and cloudy, you may be sure the kidneys are deranged.
Another very marked symptom of kidney disease is pain in the small of the back.
The letter quoted below tells how these symptoms were overcome by Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Because of their direct and combined action on both liver and bowels these pills cure the most complicated cases.
Capt. W. Smith, a veteran of the Crimean war, Rev. Livingstone B.C., writes:—"I can testify that for years I was a sufferer from chronic kidney disease, which was the verdict after the doctor examined me and analyzed my urine. As his medicine did me no good I bought a box of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and was benefited so much that I kept on taking them until I can say that I am perfectly cured, which the doctor certifies."
One pill a dose, 25 cents a box. At all dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

GRANTING PATENTS.

Invention as Distinguished From Mere Mechanical Skill.

A patent can properly be granted protecting the product of mere mechanical skill as distinguished from invention. Difficulty is frequently experienced in distinguishing between the two, and it is the object of the following article to determine whether a particular device is the result of mechanical skill or is not whether an ordinary mechanic could make the device if it were suggested to him, but whether he would make it without suggestions save those which are prompted by his skill and knowledge of his art.
For example, a man constructs out of iron a machine which had previously been made out of wood. He does not thereby become an inventor in a legal sense, because everybody knows that any constructor can build a machine out of iron instead of wood. But suppose that gunpowder had just recently been discovered and that the man who invented it had applied for and obtained a patent upon it.
He might have claimed, "I combine saltpetre, sulphur and charcoal in a certain way and produce a startling result," and it would be answered, "If every chemist did use his knowledge as well as the skill, the origination of the powder constituted invention.—Exchange.

PECULIAR TREES.

They Yield Bread, Butter, and Milk, Soap and Candles.
The breadfruit tree of Ceylon is very remarkable. Its fruit is baked and eaten as we eat bread and is equally good and nutritious. In Barbuda, South America, is a tree which, by piercing the trunk, produces milk, with which it is used to feed their children. In the interior of Africa is a tree which produces excellent butter. It resembles the American oak, and its fruit, from which the butter is pressed, is used to feed the cattle. The great traveler, declared that the butter surpassed any made in England from cow's milk. At Sierra Leone is the cream fruit tree, the fruit of which is quite agreeable in taste.

At Table Bay, near the Cape of Good Hope, is a small tree the berries of which make excellent candles. It is also found in the Azores. The vegetable tallow tree also grows in Sumatra, in Algeria and in China. In the island of Ceylon large quantities of oil and tallow are extracted from its fruit, which is gathered in November or December, when the tree has lost all its leaves. The bark of a tree in China produces a beautiful soap, which is the sapindus or soap berry order also grow in the north of Africa. They are amazingly prolific, and their fruit contains about 30 per cent of capelin.

A Bachelor and a Widow.
"Bachelors," said the widow, "are the most sensible people on earth. At any rate, the bachelors I know are. I dined with one not long ago. During the first part of the meal he seemed to be announcing."
"If any of my friends see me," he said, "they will think I am dining with some other man's wife."
"Why?" I asked.
"He pointed to my wedding ring."
"Shall I take it off?" I asked.
"Would you mind?" said he.
"Not at all," I said and slipped off the ring.
"Since then when going anywhere with that bachelor or any other bachelor I save him from embarrassment by taking off my wedding ring before we start."
The flow of rivers.
The flow of rivers, as might be supposed, is the slowest at the bottom of the water and highest at the top. The average velocity of the entire stream is found, as a rule, at about six-tenths of the depth. The friction of the bottom which retards the movement of the deepest water is much greater, relative to the whole volume of the stream, in a shallow river than in a deep one.

Womanlike.
"In my opinion," said Jones, "a woman's club to be successful should aim at something far removed from female suffrage."
"I do not agree with you," retorted Miss Strong, with set lip. "That alone should be its object."
"Exactly, but if it aims at something else it is more likely to hit that."

Looking Backward.
"Some people have queer ideas of sentiment," I can testify that for years I was a sufferer from chronic kidney disease, which was the verdict after the doctor examined me and analyzed my urine. As his medicine did me no good I bought a box of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and was benefited so much that I kept on taking them until I can say that I am perfectly cured, which the doctor certifies."
One pill a dose, 25 cents a box. At all dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

FALL CLOSING.

A dispatch just received from London, England, announces the departure from Liverpool of Mr. H. Greene, travelling representative of the World's Great Clothing House of Curzon Bros., London, England. Mr. Greene will commence his business tour at Victoria, B.C., Aug. 29th, and continue eastward visiting various cities hereafter to be announced. Mr. Greene carries with him a full series of the latest designs in suitings, overcoats and trousers, and is authorized to take measurements and orders for all sorts of men's clothing, which will be sent by mail from Messrs. Curzon's warehouse in London, England, direct to the purchaser. Our readers are familiar with the extensive advertisements of Messrs. Curzon Bros. appearing in our columns.

"Well, sir," replied the verger, "I don't know for certain, but he mostly surmises 'em at Brompton."—Cleveland Leader.

Gentlemen,—I have frequently used MINARD'S LINIMENT and also prescribed it for my patients always with the most gratifying results, and I consider it the best all-round Liniment extant.

Womanlike.
"In my opinion," said Jones, "a woman's club to be successful should aim at something far removed from female suffrage."
"I do not agree with you," retorted Miss Strong, with set lip. "That alone should be its object."
"Exactly, but if it aims at something else it is more likely to hit that."

Looking Backward.
"Some people have queer ideas of sentiment," I can testify that for years I was a sufferer from chronic kidney disease, which was the verdict after the doctor examined me and analyzed my urine. As his medicine did me no good I bought a box of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and was benefited so much that I kept on taking them until I can say that I am perfectly cured, which the doctor certifies."
One pill a dose, 25 cents a box. At all dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Not Deliberate.
Wife—I claim that the story you told me last night when you came home was a deliberate lie!
Hub—And I say it wasn't! I never thought up one more quickly in my life!

A Card Collection.

A remarkable collection of nearly six hundred packs of playing cards of all ages and all nations has just been presented to the Company of Makers of Playing Cards of England. The collection includes English cards illustrating proverbs, heraldry, fortune-telling and items of topical interest. The Indian ones are the most interesting in the collection. Cut from what is presumably deerhide, the forty skin cards used by the Sioux Indians of the West are wonderfully attractive. The pack contains four suits—butterflies, fish, flowers and animal ornaments. For the game of ginjea, the Hindus made use of 120 circular cards, hand-painted and lacquered.

Husband—Well, darling, I've had my life insured for $10,000.
Wife—How very sensible of you! Now I shan't have to keep telling you to be so careful every place you go to—Louisville Post.

Faultless in Preparation.—Unlike any other stomach regulator, Parmenter's Vegetable Pills are the result of long study of vegetable compounds calculated to stimulate the stomachic functions and maintain them at the normal standard. Years of use have proved their faultless character and established their excellent reputation. And this reputation they have maintained for years will continue to maintain, for these pills must always stand at the head of the list of standard preparations.

A barrister observed to a learned brother in court that he thought his opponent was unimpressively poor. "You are right," replied his friend. "A lawyer cannot be too barefaced."—Tit-Bits.

HOT WEATHER AILMENTS.

A medicine that will keep children well is a great boon to every mother. This is just what Baby's Own Tablets do. An occasional dose keeps the little stomach and bowels right, and prevents sickness. During the hot weather months stomach troubles speedily turn to fatal diarrhoea or cholera infantum, and if a medicine like Baby's Own Tablets is not at hand the child may die in a few hours. The mother will always keep a box of Tablets in the house and give them to her children occasionally to clear out the stomach and bowels and keep them well. Don't wait until the child is sick—the delay may cost a precious little life. Get the Tablets now and you will feel reasonably safe. Every mother who uses these Tablets raises them and that is the best evidence that there is no other medicine for children so good. And the mother has the guarantee of a government analyst that the Tablets contain no opiate or harmful drug. Dealers sell the Tablets at 25 cents a box or you can get them by mail from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

"When I see what Barlow accomplishes I am forced to admiration," said Bunting. "He has great physical endurance."
"Yes," replied Gargoyles, "that man has the constitution of a debutante."—London Telegraph.

Ten cents' worth of Wilson Fly Pads will kill more house flies than three hundred sheets of sticky paper.

Mrs. Nuttich—I told Widow Downes to send her boy to you and you'd give him a position.
Mr. Nuttich—Well, I didn't give him no position. He came with a note from so and so, and she said in the note: "I must find employment for my boy, even if he works for a mere pittance." The nerve of her called me a mere pittance!—Philadelphia Press.

Minard's Liniment relieves Neuralgia.
Dealer—Let me sell you some of our new patent bait, sir.
Fisherman—Is it effective?
Dealer—Effective! Why, I sold a man some of it last week and he got turned out of church for telling the truth about the fish he caught.—Cleveland Leader.

Your druggist, grocer, or general storekeeper will supply you with Wilson's Fly Pads, and you cannot afford to be without them. Avoid unsatisfactory substitutes.

Spirit of the Open Lure.
The great charm of scenery and the country life is the moral feeling that seems to pervade it. This has prevailed through all English literature from Chaucer to Wordsworth and down to our own times. It has cast its spell over almost all of our Canadian poets, who have wood nature in her most secret haunts and studied her minutest caprices. Montreal Witness.

Sized Him Up.
Briggs—He have made a will leaving my brain to the hospital and just got an acknowledgment from the authorities. Griggs—Were they pleased?
Briggs—They wrote that every little helps.

Eth Tide.
Father (eminent stockbroker)—With the bow the sea rises, my boy; with the tide it falls.
Son (a chip of the old block)—Then would be the time to buy, wouldn't it, daddy?

What comes with the wind will go with the rain.—Irish Proverb.

THE HUMAN ENGINE.

To Operate This Masterpiece Air Is the First Necessity.

Of all the engines constantly devised by man not one can equal that masterpiece of construction, the engine of the human frame. To run that engine air is the first necessity. Construct it how you will, the air is the greater part of the energy which feeds a power plant is lost before it reaches the applying machine. The body only has the power of using energy really economically and efficiently. Its food is its fuel. To be available all the constituents of that food must be burned, producing heat and power. For that burning the oxygen of the air is essential. Equally true is it that nitrogen must be present to prevent the rapid combustion which would take place in oxygen alone. Be it noted, whether the combustion be fast or slow, the action is the same. The body burns the carbon and hydrogen of its food and gives out the oxides of these substances, carbon dioxide (carbon acid gas) and hydrogen oxide (water). The water that is formed within the body by the burning of hydrogen is of comparatively slight importance in a consideration of the vital processes of the effect of air upon the individual, but the other factor, the carbon dioxide formed in the body, is of direct importance. Hollis Godfrey in Atlantic.

FOOD FOR CANNIBALS.

One of the Many Tragedies Enacted in Polynesia.

It is not so very long ago that cannibalism was rife throughout Polynesia, so that to be killed, cooked and eaten was the almost invariable fate of sailors who chanced to be so unfortunate as to visit those islands.

Perhaps the most awful tragedy of the kind on record was that which happened in connection with the loss of the St. Paul, Captain Penzance, while on a voyage from Hongkong to Sydney. This fine steamship carried, besides a full crew, 323 passengers, mostly emigrants.

On Sept. 30, 1853, she was wrecked on the island of Ross, but all got safely on shore. A little later the captain and eight of the crew left the island in search of assistance and were picked up by the Prince of Denmark schooner. Eventually the French steamer Styx was dispatched to the island and brought away one emigrant. The remaining 323 had been massacred and devoured by the natives.—Pearson's Weekly.

Philadelphia's Anti-tipping Scheme.
A Philadelphia acquaintance has invented a way of getting rid of the "brushing" nuisance. He places a silver quarter in the hollow of his right hand and, turning to the boy who is pretending to find dust upon his clothes, says:

"Here's such a tremendous 'brush' I'll give you this money if you can brush it out of my hand."
"Yes, sir," answers the boy with glee unless he has tried the act previously. In that case he gives up the job.

As a general proposition, the most facile "brushing" will not sweep a coin off a human hand. Why this happens to be true will be less understood after the reader has tried it himself. One might almost say that a coin cannot be brushed with a whisk broom of the hair as well as out of the palm of a hand.

Give the boy three tries and then return the money to your pocket.

Why, of Course!
The editor of an agricultural paper was grumbling about a puzzling question he had received from a city man who had recently returned to the country. The inquiry was this: "Will you kindly tell me how long cows should be milked?"

The office boy, passing near, heard his superior repeating the question: "glod."

"Excuse me, boss," he said, "but why don't yer tell him jes' de same's short cows?"—Judge.

A Writ Superfluous.
Boys in the west of England believe that by squeezing a mole to death between the hands and touching the affected parts with the blood that comes from the mouth of the dying animal warts will disappear and will not reappear. The culprits are convinced that moles, worms and other subterranean dwellers have no feelings, and therefore it is not cruelty to put them to death in this way.

Scarcity of English Humor.
It is to be feared that if the papers received a special corner once each week for the criticism of the week it would be offered with reluctance. There is no wit to speak of today, only a feeble imitation of it which people are fond of calling the saving sense of humor.—London Saturday Review.

Skilled.
"How did you acquire such skill?" asked the inquisitive one of the clever juggler.
"Why, I have a natural talent—hereditary, I might say. My father used to eat peas with a knife."

Just a Change.
"Poor man! Have you always been blind?"
"No, mum," answered Tim Tibbs unthinkingly. "Last week I was lame, but dere wasn't stuff in it."

The cock often crows without a victor.—Danish Proverb.

THE LIE THAT FAILED

After the scandalous campaign that has been carried on by the subsidized press against John Herron, and in particular the "venomous campaign" kept going by the Frank Paper, one would have expected that when Mr. Herron appeared on the platform the challenge issued by the "Miner" to all who believed that there was anything in the scandals would have been taken up. The challenge was to any Liberal or interested elector to charge Mr. Herron with any of the matters charged against him, as for instance that gross falsehood about his having appealed to sectional, racial and religious prejudice to gain votes.

But when Mr. Herron spoke in Macleod, the home of the Chronicle in Frank, the home of the Frank Paper, was any such stand taken by the backers of these false reports? Had one of them the courage to come up to Mr. Herron and denounce to his face the things that they claimed in print he had done? Far from it. His traducers sat dumb, unable to speak, well knowing that they had retailed lies and could not back them up. They being amateurs in the business, we give them that credit, had not even the courage of the hiring politician, with face of brass, whose business is to back up his lies.

Mr. Herron, on every platform since these roorbacks have been circulated, has dealt generously with his opponents, giving them every chance to prove their statements. He has refused in a manly and open way, in a manner which has left no doubt in the minds of his hearers that he was honest and truthful, all the scandals that have been raised about him. HE HAS STATED THAT HE HAS NEVER RAISED THE QUESTION OF RELIGION AND NO ONE DARE SAY OTHERWISE. Is it not time for the Frank Paper, the Macleod Chronicle and the other recruits of the reptile press to crawl down? If the people who control them have any manliness they will own up. At all events the public no longer puts any faith in them, and even the strongest and most honest of Liberals are disgusted with their tactics.

LIBERAL FINANCE

The people of Canada are a business people. In private life they expect honesty and fair dealing. They expect that the people who work for them shall be honest. And in matters affecting the Dominion they have a right to look for honest work and efficient service. Have they got it? Take the case of the Grand Trunk Pacific, that line which the Liberal party has backed to the finish.

Laurel in introducing the measure into Parliament guaranteed that the total cost to the people of Canada of this line would be but $13,000,000. Mr. Blair, that eminent authority on railways, surrendered his seat in the Cabinet as a protest against such foolish reckoning. He knew that the figures were wrong, and he wisely refused to allow his name to go down to history as one who had deceived the people. And now the government expect that it may cost $300,000,000. Three hundred million dollars before it is finished. A big burden to tax the people of Canada with. A load of sixty dollars per head for every inhabitant of this Dominion. How does the man who has to pay like that feel? For it is the poor man on whom this burden will fall, not on millionaire Sifton and his brother-in-law, Turfiff and Burrows.

Broderick stated as a matter to be proud of, that there had already been built six hundred miles at a cost of twenty-seven million dollars. That is going home. Would any man keep an employee in his service who would assure him that a certain work would cost a certain sum and then found that the estimate was as the work proceeded three hundred fold? Certainly not. Let us have a business party at the head of affairs and fire the set that have so wretchedly led Canada into the paths of debt.

"HOT STUFF"

The Frank Paper is out again with the Liberals call "hot stuff." It is really funny, very funny. In the first breath the "Miner" is accused of falsehood, in the second breath the Frank Paper admits the lie, the misrepresentation of John Herron and the Chinese vote. John Herron's vigorous speech on the Asiatic question in the House of Commons, reproduced in this issue, is "our final answer to this question." Read it and judge for yourselves.

The Frank Paper jabs loose again in a vain effort to show that the "Miner" and the men who control it are unequal to the task, but in continuing, acknowledges that the Liberal candidate is a shareholder in the Glangarry ranch Co., who, since the last general election received from the Laurier government one of the most coveted leases doled out to political favorites. The lease covers some 13,500 acres and is irrevocable for 21 years, with the privilege of renewing for another 21 years, under the same conditions. The rental per acre per annum is two cents, and the lessee may at any time purchase ten per cent of the acreage for the sum of $1.00 per acre, or in other words about 1,400 acres for $1,400. The land in the vicinity of the Glangarry ranch is held to-day at a price ranging from $10 to $30 per acre. How would our readers like to get in on a graft of these proportions? Has such privileges ever been extended to the common people? It would be well for the people of the Pass to consider the record of the Liberal government, have the courage of their convictions and vote for a man of undoubted integrity. A vote for John Herron is a vote for pure and progressive government.

CIVIL SERVICE REFORM

The Liberal party claims that it has taken up the question of reforming the Civil Service in earnest. How it has done so may be seen in the manner in which the Liberal majority in the late House of Commons quashed every attempt to properly investigate into the state of affairs in the Civil Service, and treated the report of its own commission as of little import. Still, the party talks reform, and it is up to the local candidate, A. B. McDonald, to show where he stands in the matter.

In the election trial of the petition against the return of Archibald McNab, as a member for the county of Glangarry, Ontario, in the year 1874 (the election having been held in 1874) it was brought out that a mail clerk named McIntosh, appointed by Mr. McDonald, or "McDonald," as it is spelt, had been promptly dismissed by the post office department because he had attended election meetings and had voted and been generally adverse to the then government. And the judge (Wilson) stated, "I have no doubt that the vote of McIntosh . . . was the occasion of a letter being written by the post office inspector at Montreal under instructions from the head office at Ottawa dismissing McIntosh from his place in the post office. Lieut.-Gov. McDonald in evidence said that he had received a letter from A. B. McDonald, his brother, regarding the attendance of McIntosh at an election meeting, and asking him to show the letter to Mr. Fournier, post master general, which he did. Hence the remarks of the judge."

Has Mr. McDonald changed since that date? Do the people believe him honest when he advocates Civil Service reform after acting thus? Is it not rather a proof that he believes that the old system is still good? To the victor the spoils, for a man like Mr. McDonald does not easily change his views. . . the principal of the Liberal party is the same now as it has ever been, to use the public service as a machine, to build it up with party needlers and grafters, men who will hesitate at nothing to serve the party that has installed them in office, rather than procure an efficient civil service, doing its duty, rewarded for merit only, and secure in the knowledge that as long as work is faithfully done there can be no question of discharge.

But an extract from the journals of the House of Commons of Canada on the same subject, "The Glangarry Controversy Election" as found in the records and dated from Toronto, July 28, 1874, may be of interest to the electors of the Pass. It reads as follows: "Sir—In pursuance of the statute in that behalf, I have the honor to certify to you that, on the twenty-fifth day of January last, the petition of Ronald McDonald against the election and return of Archibald McNab, as a member for the county of Glangarry in the House of Commons, came on to be heard before me in the village of Alexandria in due form of law and was adjourned from time to time until the twenty-sixth day of June last when judgement was delivered, and I have determined that the said election was void, and that the said Archibald McNab was not duly elected and I now certify such determination to you."

"And further that there was not proved before me that any corrupt practice was committed by or with the knowledge and consent of either of the candidates at said election. "That Allan Ross McDonald and John Angus McDonald have been proved to have been guilty of corrupt practices at the said election."

"That corrupt practices have not, nor is there any reason to believe that corrupt practices have extensively prevailed at the said election."

"(Signed) Adam Wilson, J." There it is for the people of the Pass to see. Plain as can be. And yet the supporters of Mr. McDonald are making use of the vilest tactics to overthrow Mr. Herron. But the voters of this riding will not stand for their work. All over the Conservative majority is piling up, and the 20th instant show us that John Herron has been elected by a larger majority than before.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS

Any even-numbered section of Dominion lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting Band 20, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section of 160 acres, more or less. Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Land Agency or Sub-Agency for the district in which the land is situated. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at any Agency on certain conditions, by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of any intending homesteader. Duties—Must reside six months' residence upon acquisition of the land in each year for three years. (2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than fifty acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. He may also do so by living on the father or mother on certain conditions. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement. (3) A homesteader intending to perform his duties in accordance with the above, while living with parents or on farming land owned by them, must file with the Agent for the district of such intention.

THE EYE OPENER
The Calgary "News" of last week contains an article which brands Bob Edwards, editor of the "Eye Opener," as one of the lowest, and debased beings that ever disgraced the face of God's earth. It is strange that the "News," whose editor is the famous Dan McGillicuddy of "Munio M." and of Ross government fame, the great exponent of the rotten provincial government Ontario ever was called upon to oust from power, should live all these years in Calgary and just on the eve of a general election find it necessary to lay before the people the so-called record of Bob Edwards. We hope that at the trial now proceeding, in which McGillicuddy is defending himself against a charge of criminal libel, preferred by Mr. Edwards, that the truth "will out." We are inclined to the belief that it will be found that this is another political boomerang fathered by some low-grade political schister. Bob Edwards has done more for the uplifting of political life in Canada than any other journalist who ever wielded the pen.

LATER

The McGillicuddy libel case has again been postponed at the request of the defence. E. J. Nolan who is acting for Mr. Edwards, has accused the defence of trying to stave off the hearing until after the elections, for political reasons. Reader, how does it look to you?

WEDDING AT COWLEY

The wedding of two popular young folks attracted a large number of people to the Methodist church on Wednesday evening of last week, when Miss Edith Mary Day was united in matrimony to Mr. Ed. Grove, foreman in Morrison's blacksmith shop. The beautiful and impressive ritual of the Anglican church was used, the Rev. W. H. Mowat officiating. The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. Robert Day, wore a beautiful gown of voile over silk, with veil and bridal wreath. She was supported by Miss Rita Latta, bridesmaid, while Mr. J. F. Smith acted as best man. The newly married couple entertained a number of invited guests to a bountiful supper in their home in the east end. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts, testifying to the esteem in which the young couple are held, and they embark upon the sea of matrimony with the congratulations and best wishes of a wide circle of friends.

EDITORIAL NOTES
The Macleod Chronicle says that the "Miner" made a despicable attack on one of Macleod's BEST citizens. If this be the case, God pity Macleod.

The Macleod Chronicle was seized for rent on Monday. Poor, dear old thing, it is too bad at such a critical moment. Anybody but a jackass would pay the rent.

The Macleod Chronicle has been given away by the hotel copies the past three weeks, owing to the fact that it is not worth buying. So they are given away to get rid of them. Most jackasses are worth something. When a number of railwaymen asked, "what about the Japs?" did you notice Oliver ignore it. His remark that the Japs were gentlemen, while his questioners were not, is typical of the stand of the liberal government on the Jap question.—Medicine Hat Times.

It has been reported that some of the Conservative supporters have been informing the electorate that A. B. Macdonald is a Roman Catholic. Well, that is his privilege. It is none of our business and it should be stopped. Stop it! stop it. Herron does not care, neither do we. We say, shame on the man who uses that as an inducement to vote. What do you say, voter?

Something which very, very few people know, and which John Herron told the electors in his speech on Wednesday evening, is that in 1874, the Liberals offered anyone who would build the Canadian Pacific Railway, 60,000,000 acres of land, and $20,000,000, while the Conservative government gave the railway only 25,000,000 acres of land and $25,000,000. Mr. Herron has the proof of this in black and white. The Liberals have been accusing the Conservatives of giving away too much land and too much money to build the C. P. R., yet they offered $35,000,000 more money and 35,000,000 acres of land more than the Conservatives, and no one would take his offer. Why? Because no one could trust them. The Conservatives built the road, for that much less, because they saw the need of it.

LIBERAL MEETING

On Tuesday evening the Liberals held a meeting at the opera house to a good audience considering the inclemency of the weather. Hon. W. H. Cushing was the first speaker, and told the audience of a good many things they knew, and defied the Laurier government, and the timber and land deals that the press have been telling us about. Mr. Cushing's knowledge of Dominion affairs is very limited. He doesn't even know that the Hon. Mr. Borden has a "platform" or a "policy." At least he said so. He tried to make the intelligent audience believe that the west could not exist without the Liberal party. He told of Frank Oliver giving away 10,000 homesteads last month, but did not say that it was an election dodge to catch votes. Mr. Cushing touched lightly upon the tariff, but his speech from beginning to end was very weak and lacked force and enthusiasm.

The next speaker was J. McLaughlin, a socialist. He gave a very fiery speech and asked for the vote of the people in behalf of the socialist candidate John Harrington. The socialists seemed very well pleased with this speaker.

W. F. Brown, Liberal organizer, was the next speaker. He said the socialists always spoke of the same thing. But in all his experience he never once heard them tell of how they would remedy the conditions they spoke of. Mr. Brown scored the "Miner" for supporting Mr. John Herron. He did not tell the audience, however, that he has confined his money and treating in the Pass for the past three weeks in order to try and win votes for his party. He said the "Miner" abused Duncan Marshall, one of Alberta's most respected citizens. Did anyone ever hear such trash. Everyone knows that Marshall is a shooter of "hot air" and a politician up to all the cute and sly tricks on record to try and catch votes. Mr. Brown made a most pitiful, lamentable appeal, with tears almost flowing for support for his candidate. Really, it would put one in mind of a child after it got a thrashing at school. Mr. Brown need not think he can come and speak to an intelligent audience in Coleman and make them believe his Edmonton "hot air" story. He was quite exhausted when he had finished his childish appeal to the voters.

After the meeting cheers were given for the king, the candidate and the speakers. The meeting closed with cheers for the socialist candidate, John Harrington. Alex. Cameron, president of the Liberal association was the chairman.

The Substitutes

By Constance D'Arcy Mackay.

Copyrighted, 1901, by Associated Literary Press.

To look at Miss Miranda Eldridge you would never dream that she was one of those who keep alight the hidden fire. She was small and thin and careworn, and her eyes, except when she smiled, were full of the tiredness that a dreary procession of days had put there.

The other boarders seated around the long narrow table of Mrs. Pennington's basement dining room filled in the pauses between soup and roast with friendly familiarity, in which Miss Eldridge took no part.

To be sure, she answered pleasantly enough if any one spoke to her, yet she always lapsed into silence immediately afterward and as soon as dinner was over sought the narrow confines of her little bed room, out of four nights of sleeping, in three.

But as no way is really ever dark to those who have the inner vision, so to Miss Eldridge her skylight room was not the cheerless place it seemed. To others it might look sparse and cramped and lonely, but to her it was a sanctuary of dreams, where night after night she lived over again the one great event that had crowned her meager life.

Once in a past, now growing very dim and far, romance had touched her with a sweep of rosy plumes. That was twelve years before—twelve dreary, uneventful work-worn years—and yet Miss Eldridge had never forgotten. She still held the vision as if it were yesterday.

It had begun compassedly enough. A wealthy aunt had chosen to remember Miss Eldridge's existence, and sent her a bit of postcard that bade her be present at an evening musicale. Trembling and unexpectant, little Miss Eldridge had gone, and had found it like most musicales until the magical moment when a tall young man who looked like a Greek god in evening dress came up to her and wanted to know if he couldn't bring her an ice.

Then he had stood with her, chatting lightly and easily of this thing and that, so brilliant, so apart from all that made up her humdrum little round, that she had listened to him, rapt and spellbound, as if he were indeed the true bringer of the Promethean fire.

And from that time on she had never forgotten him. He was the ideal beside which all other men were compared and found wanting. And though she had never seen him again, and though he moved in worlds quite other than her own, the hope that she would one day meet him still made her heart leap, still filled her days with expectancy and her nights with dreams.

"I THOUGHT OF YOU AND FELT SO DEEPERLY LONELY."

Though that one blissful invitation was all that her august aunt had chosen to send her, were there not other places where she might glimpse her hero—the park, the bridge path or the river? It gave an eager uplift to each moment without which her life would have been a faded dream.

She faded, but her hope never did. Perpetual adoration kept it vital and alive. Yet there were times when even her high spirit faltered, times when something in her reached out for a more actual companionship than that of visions, and it was on one of these days that she first met the professor. Really met him, that is, for he had sat opposite her at the table month in and month out, with no deeper acquaintanceship than that which arises from politely passing the bread or fattening one's willingness to share the salt and pepper.

But now the professor had met her face to face in the lower hall one sultry September night when the rest of the boarders were rapturously scrambling for places of vantage on the stone steps.

Perhaps he read a fellow feeling in Miss Eldridge's eyes. Perhaps he guessed that there were moments when she, too, found Mrs. Pennington's unendurable. Be that as it might, on the spur of the moment he stopped her and asked if she wouldn't rather go for a stroll than "join that pandemonium out there," indicating the doorsteps and its occupants by a vague wave of the hand.

Miss Eldridge paused, hesitated and accepted. Not that by this time her idol removed from its niche. Far from it. For as thus progressed the sympathetic understanding which sprang up between herself and the professor brought to light the fact that he, too, had had his ideal—a woman seen only once, but beautifully remembered and treasured in his mind aged heart as an unending rose whose luster dimmed all other flowers.

"Any glimpse?" he would ask her whimsically as they walked side by side in the crisp November weather. "And you?"

Undiscouraged, she would shake her head. "Not the slightest," he would answer. And so it went.

Then came the morning when a large, square envelope was laid by Miss Eldridge's plate. Her aunt, growing old and feeble, had not the less diminished her social activities. After a long absence in Europe she had returned to New York and requested the pleasure of Miss Eldridge's company at a musicale.

Miss Eldridge put down the invitation, white to the lips, her heart bounding furiously. Pride urged her not to accept, but a feeling stronger than any self-love swept over the barriers of pride and brought them low. The old inextinguishable hope was there, vital and dominant as ever.

On the great evening she arrayed herself with trembling fingers. The face her mirror showed was flushed and radiant. It was as if her lost youth had stepped back to crown her for a moment with the touch of all sweet, imperishable things.

The professor was going to a special meeting of the board of education and had promised to wait for her at the car when it was time for her to return. Ten minutes before she arrived he was at his post, pacing restlessly. Under the thin flare of the street lamps his face looked more tired and haggard than usual.

"The glory, too, had faded from Miss Eldridge's eyes when she came. As she met him she looked quite worn. The professor guessed at the reason instantly.

"Wasn't he there?" he asked, a throb of commiseration in his voice.

"Yes," she cried, with a little laugh that was half a sob—"yes; he was there. He came and talked to me, and instead of 'oh, professor, how can I tell you! He isn't the least bit like an Apollo Belvedere! He's grown stout and a little bald, and—'—"

A second sob stuck in Miss Eldridge's throat.

But she had worshipped unreally so long that now she was determined to have any cost. "And I thought his remarks were exceedingly rapid," she ended bravely. Then she glanced up at the professor and noted the change in him.

"Why, professor?" she cried, "has anything happened?"

"Yes," said the professor grimly, "a great deal has happened. Tonight at the board meeting I saw her!"

Miss Eldridge's question came in a startled whisper. "And is she still the same?"

"Yes, she is still the same. She has preserved her youth, and you know how preserved youth looks. I'd rather have an honest wrinkle than all that!"

He stopped, and then went on more calmly: "All my life I have been idealizing a pretty doll, endowing her with graces of the heart and soul that she never for an instant had, while here beside me—"

Oh, I've been blind as a bat, Miranda, blind as a bat, but I'm going to make it up for you. If you'll let me, if you'll listen to a poor middle-aged suitor after your dreams of Apollo Belvedere!"

The glow had come back again to little Miss Eldridge's face. Her eyes were twin stars.

"Let you?" she whispered. "Oh, tonight, after my eyes were opened, I thought of you, and I was so desperately lonely, for I knew you had some one else, while I—"

"The school board," said the professor irrelevantly, "have raised my salary. They've offered to make me principal of an outlying school where all the teachers own their homes—beautiful homes, with lawns and vine-covered porches."

The professor straightened as he spoke and looked positively young.

And an hour later Miss Eldridge opened the tiny window of her skylight bedroom and looked out across the roof's faded bunch of violets that she had worn on a memorable night twelve years before and cherished ever since. Then she turned about with a happy sigh, for the dream was ended, and in its place had come the substance of reality.

Foiling the Brok Lender.

"The public library serves me in an important respect," said the man with the aggressive wit, "even though I don't take a book out once a year. I've offered to make me principal of an outlying school where all the teachers own their homes—beautiful homes, with lawns and vine-covered porches."

"I'm always being pestered by fool friends, who say: 'Have you read this or that? Oh, you haven't! Well, I'll lend it to you.' Then if I accept the loan the chances are that I never want to read the book anyhow and haven't the time if I did. Then I forget to return it and make a lifelong enemy of the lender. Some day there'll be a painless method of exterminating the book lender. In the meantime, I dodge him by means of the public library. I say, 'Much obliged, but I've got my application in for that very book at the library.' That lets me out. That's about the only way I ever use a library."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Double.

"Apparently you don't admire Miss Skreesh."

"No! I don't like her hair."

"What hair?"

"Those long curls and those she wears."—Philadelphia Press.

An Irish Landlord.

Valentine Charley Brokne, Earl of Kilmurray, owns all the land of Kilmurray, all the land that surrounds them, and according to the grant of James I., Feb. 16, 1622, "the islands of, or in the same, and the fisheries of said lakes, and the soil and bottom thereof." He owns the mountains round about, and one of his stewards told me that they comprised 999,000 acres. He owns the village and the town, and the house on the ground on which the railway station stands. All of the hotels occupy his soil under lease, and the insane asylum with its 600 patients, and the poorhouse for County Kerry, with 400 friendless and destitute creatures within its walls.

Impurities of the Blood Counteracted.—Impurities in the blood come from defects in the action of the liver. They are revealed by pimples and unsightly blotches on the skin. They must be treated inwardly, and for this purpose there is no more effective compound to be used than Parke's Vegetable Pills. They act directly on the liver, and by setting up healthy processes have a beneficial effect upon the blood, so that impurities are eliminated.

TREATMENT FOR DISCOLORED NECK

THE fashion of wearing the collarless blouse has brought with it a double trouble to the up-to-date woman. For one thing, it exposes the sensitive skin of throat and neck to wind and dust, making it coarse from constant exposure. At the same time, it lays bare to sight the ugly black rim about the throat caused by wearing the tight, high collars of last year. The skin of throat, neck and chest will show lack of care more quickly than that of any other part of the body.

If you have this ugly black streak about your throat, your first treatment must be towards eliminating it. Cold water will stand you in little stead; the neck should be washed with warm water, into which a few drops of borax have been added. This done, you should exercise the neck until a free perspiration appears, then again bathe it in warm water, and apply the following lotion, letting it dry on the neck:

Boric acid, 1 drachm; distilled witch hazel, 2 ounces; rosewater, 2 ounces. So many women write to me and say: "How can you exercise the neck?" This is simple enough. Bend the head back and forward and from side to side, and you will soon bring on a perspiration, if you have first opened the pores by a warm bath. Or you can take a small Turkish towel and rub the neck freely with it. The idea is to open the pores so that the bleaching lotion will have quicker results. This treatment should be given every night until the streak disappears.

The work of keeping the skin soft and white should be done at night. If you have been out in the air, with sun and wind beating against your throat all day, then apply cold cream before you wash the neck. This loosens the dust, when the neck should be wiped off with a bit of old linen. If you are averse to using cold cream, a very good emollient can be made at home. Take the white of one raw egg, and beat it to a very stiff froth—so stiff that it can be turned upside down on the plate and not fall. Then put it into a bowl and add an equal quantity of pure, sweet almond oil. Rub this mixture on the neck with old linen, wipe off with a clean cloth, and then wash with soap and water.

If the neck is tanned and discolored all over—by this I mean has no distinct streak, but is simply a muddy color all over—I advise the following bleach. Five grams of powdered borax, five grams of tincture of benzoin, ten grams of spirits of camphor, 100 grams of pure rosewater. Shake the ingredients well until thoroughly mixed, and mop the neck with the lotion, letting it dry on.

This lotion can be used twice a day, at night and after the morning bath. After the morning bath, apply the lotion and then dust the throat with a pure powder.

Many women are afflicted with the lump of fat which often appears at the base of the neck. This latter is often, possibly, a girl's very round-shouldered appearance. It is not difficult to massage your own neck. Cold cream, or the egg and almond oil lotion, should be applied generously, and the massaging done in a rotary motion. By this I mean not to scatter the fingers over and over the neck, but to press down the flesh, and roll or rub, so that you cause the flesh to stir over the cords in a circular motion. Keep on with this treatment until the whole throat has been covered. Then apply the bleach, which is also somewhat of an astringent.

Many women are afflicted with a goiter, and this, of course, shows very plainly when wearing a Dutch neck rock. This can be cured by the use of iodine, and perhaps the most successful treatment yet discovered for it is electricity. However, if a goiter is of long standing, and has its settled growth, there is little hope of a cure. Mothers who see signs of goiter in any of their children should be treated by a physician at once, and not waste time with home cures or advertised patent remedies.

One of the most valuable assets of the modern toilet table is the much abused lemon. It is perhaps as effective a bleach as can be found. Cut the lemon in half and rub the pure juice directly upon the throat after bathing in warm water. Let the lemon juice dry on. If this treatment is too vigorous, then the following lotion may be found effective: Take two heaping tablespoonfuls of oatmeal, add to it one quart of cold water, let come to a boil and boil ten minutes. Cool and strain through a piece of cheesecloth, and to the liquid add the juice of two lemons and a tablespoonful of alcohol. Apply this with a cloth, not wiping it away.

Warts are very apt to appear at the base of the neck, and are most unsightly with the collarless blouse. Getting rid of them is a very simple task. Many of them can be tied off tightly with a silk thread, and in a few days will fall off. Again many warts may be successfully used the sticky milk taken from the milk-weed plant, applying several times a day. Warts have also been removed by constant applications of wet salt. If the wart is stubborn and will not yield to this simple treatment, then the following remedy can be used. But first make sure that it is a wart, pure and simple, and not some other complicated growth. One ounce of fine cereal, 1 drachm of powdered vermillion, and 1 drachm of powdered verdigris. Spread this on a piece of old kid or chamois cloth, a little round piece just the size of the wart, and keep it on over night. Repeat if necessary.

CHIFFONABLE USES FOR FALL GOWNS

FIG. C—FASHIONABLE KIMONO BLOUSE.

THE days when a combination of a gayly colored waist and a somber black skirt was fashionable are past and gone. While the material of the blouse need not be like the skirt, it must match in color, and is really a part of the dress itself. The day of the pleated skirt is decidedly over, and by fall it will be seen very little on the woman of fashion. Some conservative tailors say, however, that the pleated skirt will always be worn by a certain type of woman—presumably the tall, thin type. But certainly the gored and circular skirts are just now riding on the top wave of fashion.

One of the newest innovations in blouse trimmings is the frequent use of silk tassels. The department stores in large cities carry tassels in all colors, but those who cannot shop at such places can make the tassels at home with a heavy twisted silk, which can be bought at the embroidery counter of any small shop. For afternoon and all dress occasions, soft, clinging materials are used for matching blouses. Heavy broadened silk is not appropriate for a blouse, no matter how handsome the material.

To make a coat suit really practical, every woman should have two blouses, matching it in color, but vastly differing in texture, style and purpose. One of the smartest of the advanced fall costumes was seen the other day in a fashionable shop. It was of old blue chiffon cloth, the skirt a four-gored cut, and the coat semi-fitted and in three-quarter length. With this suit were two matching blouses. The first was a blouse, to wear mornings, for all general street wear, and for short week-end trips, was of imported surah, matching the cloth exactly in color. It was made in the long straight pleated effect, and trimmed only with tiny buttons, covered with the same material. The second blouse, for evening, was of old blue liberty silk, the exact shade of the suit. This was elaborately inset with Irish lace, soft strands of the liberty silk being pulled through the pattern of the lace, and finished off with luxurious tassels matching the blue of the material.

Figure A, shown to-day, would be a smart model to follow for such a blouse. It could be evolved from liberty silk, chiffon cloth, or a soft silk net. If you cannot buy materials to match your suit, then buy white or cream, and have it dyed to match. The long, mousseline sleeve in this model is charmingly made up in soft materials—Irish or Cluny lace should make the bracelet and yoke. The woman who has a pretty throat could eliminate the high standing collar and cut the throat out in the prevailing Dutch neck fashion. The blouse is particularly becoming to the slender girl, as it gives breadth over the shoulders and fullness over the bust.

Figure B is a most practical model for an off-tailored blouse. This model is so severe that it can be worked up from even heavier materials than silk. A light weight French flannel or soft abstruse wool is a sensible material for the girl who lives in a chilly climate. This particular model was made up in a heavy weight surah, which, by the way, has been given great preference over taffeta, as it does not cut. It was seen in a droll, London smoke gray, trimmed with smoked pearl buttons. The high Nishimura collar was detachable. It was made of heavy Cluny lace and finished off at the neck with tiny bow or raspberry satin, giving tone and distinction to an otherwise somber garment.

Figure C illustrates the fashionable kimono sleeve. The one great hindrance to this sleeve is that it binds the free use of the arm, and for this reason it is only practical for the idle girl. The girl who uses her arms freely will find this sleeve a decided drawback. This blouse was made of what is known as Sappho silk—a soft silk with a high lustre on it which costs about a dollar a yard. The collar, cuffs and belt were of a green and white taffeta silk. The tie at the throat was of soft green ribbon, a shade darker than the material in the blouse. And let me say just here that all colors this coming season are in the dull, faded tones. Nothing that is smart is vivid; all the imported materials have a faded tone to them.

Figure D shows a severely tailored blouse. It requires about four yards of silk of average width to make a blouse of this character. If the blouse is of a large size and the silk rather narrow, then five yards is safer. The dicker is separate. This makes a very neat and economical blouse for general wear; and the neck piece can be made of wash material and washed whenever soiled the least bit. Tucked organite, embroidered batiste, or heavy all-over lace make practical dickeys. Figure E shows a very full model on the favorite kimono lines. The guimpe can be made of matching or contrasting material, preferably the latter. The neck and armholes were outlined with a flat lace, dyed to match the material, a shade of the golden tan. The square yoke was of cream colored edging, while the sleeves were made of the matching silk, finished off with a cuff of the dyed flat lace insertion.

FIG. B—TAILORED BLOUSE IN SURAH SILK.

Let me also impress upon you not to wear old belts with fancy blouses. Whatever your skirt material is, have made a tiny stitched belt of it. Nothing will mar an otherwise smart costume as much as a belt that has no connection with either the skirt or the blouse.

Tomato Croquettes: Two large cups of tomatoes, two eggs, two tablespoonfuls of butter, and salt and pepper to taste. Mix thoroughly and then add enough bread crumbs to make a paste thick enough to fry. Drop the balls spoonful into boiling hot lard and fry brown. Serve immediately on a platter garnished with cross or parsley.

TOMATO RECIPES

Fried Tomatoes: Put a large tablespoon of butter in a hot saucepan, and when the butter is thoroughly heated add to it a finely chopped green pepper and a tablespoon of finely chopped onion. Let this cook until quite tender. Take out and put in a bowl to keep hot. Then add a cup of tomato sauce, and a little more butter to the pan, and lay in thick slices of firm tomatoes which have been rolled in Indian meal. Fry brown on both sides, and place on platter, covered with the pepper and onion sauce.

Tomatoes and Eggs: This makes a delicious luncheon dish. Cook six eggs until they are very hard boiled. Peel them and keep warm as possible. Make a sauce as follows: Add to one cup of butter, and a tablespoon of flour, mixed with one cup of tomatoes. Add to this one green pepper minced very fine, one tablespoon of parsley chopped very fine, and salt to taste. Have ready six slices of toast. What bread is delicious for this toast if you have it—if not, the white will answer. Toast the bread a golden brown, and butter each slice. Then place one hard boiled egg, and pour the sauce over it.

APRONS, BIG AND LITTLE, FOR VARIOUS USES

It has been said by some old wiseacres that many a man's restless eye has been captured by the sight of a dainty apron, and after that, the capture of his heart has been an easy task. Whether this be true or false, certain it is that aprons are again being worn by the housewife, and many dainty ones are to be seen in the up-to-date shops.

One of the newest developments is known as a lap apron. This consists of a perfectly square piece of soft white goods, hemmed all around. When finished it is about the size of a large silk handkerchief. At the four corners—rather in the center of each—point are sewn tiny celluloid rings, and ribbon is run through these. The purpose of this apron is to hold your fancy work, and when you get up you simply gather up the ribbons which are run through the rings, and your work, your apron and little bag are all in one.

Charming daisy aprons are another innovation. These are made of linen rather than any other material. To be very smart, the edges should be buttonholed, not hemmed, and, of course, there must be a bit of rather spacious dimensions. On each corner of the apron and in the center of the bib a tiny rabbit is embroidered in white floss. The eyes should be done in pink or red floss. Some of these aprons are made of table damask, such as is used for ordinary tablecloths, but plain linen is preferable.

For a dainty apron, and yet one that is very serviceable, there is nothing better than a good quality of dotted Swiss. The dot in the goods seems to be a trimming in itself, and hence aprons of this material need little or no further adornment. Most of these fancy aprons have pockets. Not quite so liberal in size as the schoolboy pocket, but a tiny little pocket for a handkerchief, or a thimble and spoon of thread.

For the more prosaic apron, it has been best discovered that a work apron made of a light weight blue and white ticking are filling a long-felt want. This goods is heavy, and for the woman who has to wash her own dishes and be near a sink, they are very dishes and be near a sink, they are available. They are not easily wet, and do not soil readily on account of the twill in the goods.

Clothes-pin aprons are another time-aver having practical lines. These are made of blue denim. They should be made to reach the knee only, and the binding should be of the same material, with a stout strap to go about the waist. Then another piece of the denim is stitched on the apron, coming about half way up, and this is attached down the middle, forming two large pockets. The clothespins are carried in these pockets, thus saving a woman from running back and forth looking for the pin basket, and holding four or five pins in her mouth as she hangs up articles of clothing.

Aprons with straps over the shoulders are for the maid in service only. An elderly person often likes to wear a black silk apron; for this there is no better goods than a good quality of black silk, for this will stand many washings.

On dainty aprons it is well to now heading instead of the regulation binding and strings. This heading should be about as inch in width, and wash ribbon should be run through it. This ribbon serves for strings, and at the same time lends to the beauty of the apron. The ribbon can be slipped out when the apron is soiled. It can then be pressed out, freshened up and replaced when the apron has returned snowy white from a visit to the tub.

MARY DEAN.

Tomato Jelly: Take enough tomatoes to equal a quart, run them through a sieve, and add enough sugar, salt, pepper and onion juice to flavor to taste. Dissolve one-fourth box of gelatin in a little water, add to the tomatoes and cook together until well mixed. Remove from the fire, pour into small cups, and set away on ice to harden. When perfectly cold, turn out on lettuce leaves and serve with mayonnaise dressing. This salad can be made very prettily by putting chopped olives through it, and in the bottom of each cup a thick slice of hard-boiled egg.

HARVEST THANKSGIVING SERVICE

Harvest thanksgiving service was held in St. Alban's church on Sunday evening last. The church was beautifully decorated with grain, fruit, vegetables, flowers, etc. The display of decorations looked very pretty, and great credit is due the ladies for their work of placing the exhibits. The choir sang special hymns, the organ being presided at by Mr. J. B. Crawford. The congregation was large, the church being filled to the doors. The incumbent, Rev. C. Hepworth, preached a very interesting and instructive sermon, taking for his text: "The things that are seen, are temporal, and the things that are not seen, are eternal." The service was bright and much enjoyed by all.

BRITISH COLUMBIA FRUIT

Mr. Joseph Grafton has our thanks for a box of apples, grown at Burton City, B. C., on the land being sold by Mr. J. E. Annable. The fruit, to say the least, cannot be beaten for looks and flavor. Each apple is wrapped individually in tissue paper, thereby preserving them. Mr. Grafton has sold a lot of land where these apples are grown, and the men who have purchased are very much pleased with their investment. Any one who possesses ten acres of land which is capable of producing such beautiful fruit, is lucky, indeed. The apples are a beautiful streaky red, everyone being large and firm. Mr. Annable was here week before last with an exhibit of fruit from off his land at Burton City. He had apples, grapes, and water melons as big as you could carry. The display certainly opened the eyes of the natives at Coleman.

PROGRESS AT ROYAL MINES

Lethbridge, Alta., Oct. 12—A. C. Flumerfelt, of Victoria, H. N. Galer, of Spokane, and D. W. Rogers, of Victoria, were in the city to-day on a visit of inspection on the Royal Collieries property. Asked regarding the outlook at the mine, Mr. Flumerfelt stated that he found matters well advanced since his last visit. The work on the railroad spur is nearing completion, the contractors stating that they expected the laying of steel to be finished next week. The mine management report satisfactory progress on the new slope, and anticipate that the completion of the railroad will enable them to finish the installation of the new tipples and plant in ample time to take care of the winter trade. Mr. Galer left on the evening train for Spokane, while Messrs. Flumerfelt & Rogers leave to-morrow morning for New York.

NEW TELEPHONE LINE

Cranbrook, B.C., Oct. 14—A telephone company has been formed in Cranbrook to be known as the Kootenay Telephone Lines, Limited, which will be capitalized for $200,000. They have purchased the Cranbrook Telephone company's system and will operate within the boundaries of British Columbia. They have a by-law before the city of Fernie which received its first reading on the night of the 8th instant, for the purpose of installing a new telephone system in that city and through the Pass. It is the intention later on to connect with Alberta. This bylaw for the installing of a new telephone system in the city to replace that destroyed by fire, received its second reading Monday night and will on the 20th go before the people for a vote.

WOMEN'S RIGHTS

Mr. Editor, Sir,—
Will you kindly give me space in your paper for a few thoughts for the men to think about. When I came to this country some years ago I signed away my right to a good home in the east to make a better one in the new country for the family that we were raising, but imagine my surprise when after years of hard work, suffering, privation, sickness and distress of every kind only known to those who have spent years on the prairie when the country was first opened up, to be told that I could lay claim to nothing, not even what little money I had of my own which was willingly and gladly put into the new home to help on. When I asked the reason of such laws they only laughed and said that it was to keep money and land going into the hands of the Indians, for so many white men were married to squaws. Now, if the white men did not think any more of their squaws than that they don't deserve to have a white woman, and if the men of to-day do not think any more of their wives than the men did in olden times of their squaws, they do not deserve to have a wife to help make a home for them, neither are they fit to make and hold laws for a country that they claim is civilized. Now, I think the majority of men will see that the women of the west are quite right in standing up for their own as we have determined to do. So in the near future we are going to ask every right-thinking man to come to the front and vote for a law that will give the women equal rights with the men, for do they not really work very hard, a large number harder than the men, to make the place they call home, but it is really no home, it is only a stopping place for us as long as the "Lord of creation" sees fit, and any time the man wishes to sell out he may and leave for parts unknown, leaving the wife and mother to be turned out on the street to make a living for herself and, perhaps, several little children, when everyone knows she is little able to combat with the evils of a cold world. Sons, husbands and fathers, look to home. How would you feel if it were your mother, daughter or sister who was thrust out and left homeless and penniless after years of hardship and toil. Yet, it is going on all around us. Every one knows of a similar case if he will only think a bit and look around him. The one you call wife or mother is in a far worse place than the girl who works for a living and claims her wages from month to month. Sometimes when I think of it I imagine it must only be thoughtlessness or carelessness on the part of the men, for they surely must see and know that it is coming to the women of the west to have half of the home. Leaving this to the conscience of every honest man I will close, believing right will prevail. I would like to say that I have sent a copy similar to this to one of our local papers, but he evidently is a bachelor and does not care or is a very mean, selfish and stingy man, who does not believe in giving his wife her dues, so it is time some one compelled him to. Yours in all good faith,

Cowley, September 28, 1908. NEMO
